Second stay at this site. Even though it was rainy, the amenities here made it a pleasant and relaxing weekend.

We named it sympathy of the fireflies..... just at dusk the view is perfect. The fireflies put on a great show with the grassy hills as their stage. Julie was great!

It's been a while since we have been camping, so we were all filled with a bit of nervous excitement and anticipation. However, as we crest the hill and saw the campsite, a big smile formed on all of our faces. It was picture perfect! During our stay, we experienced both sun and rain - and both were equally enjoyable in this tranquil setting. One of my daughter's favorite parts was enjoying Smores (provided in a welcome bag from Julie) around the campfire at night. In all, my family had a peaceful and relaxing stay at Evensong Farm. Julie and her son Grey were the best hosts! Everything was perfect and we have already booked a return stay in the Fall.

Beautiful, quiet space with wonderful views. The shower and toilet made it truly glamorous glamping! Thank you to the hosts for providing a lovely spot for my cousins and I to relax!

My husband, our labrador retriever, and I spent a long weekend at Julie's Wineberry camp at Evensong Farm. We had the most wonderfully relaxing trip that I can remember--and that is saying a lot, considering we have been married and traveling together for over 30 years! Beautiful scenery, everything you need to camp out, and a considerate hostess await you here. We will be back!

Wineberry is one of the best campsites I've been to on the East coast. It's very rare to get to enjoy such an exclusive campsite on such a beautiful and historic setting. Julie was very responsive with extra water and firewood requests and surprised us with delicious lemonade! The kitchen tent was a huge amenity. All of these are reasons we will be repeat visitors!

We got very lucky and snagged a last minute MDW stay at Wineberry, and wow! We love to camp, and what a great alternative this was then dragging all of our camping stuff out. All we had to do was show up with food and our bedding, the site had everything else we needed. It was also so quiet compared to all of the noisy campgrounds we have stayed at before. It was just us with our pups and they had a blast. We appreciate Julie and all the small details she has done to make your stay great. We are already looking at coming back in the Fall!

We absolutely enjoyed our stay at Julie's farm. It's bigger than I expected and it's flat. Which was perfect for our toddler running around. And here's is my Mom's review of Julie's place: We thoroughly enjoyed our TENTRR stay at Wineberry. Our hosts were very helpful, even customizing a 2-step stair for my husband and I (seniors) to get up onto the tent platform. We especially enjoyed seeing hummingbirds and hearing owls at night. The site worked well for us for and our son's family including their 2-year-old. Thanks!

We stayed at Julie's site for the second time last weekend. It's a lovely farm site, so it has lots of privacy. There is a nice balance between shade at the site and a sunny grassy area. It's very well equipped and they added some battery powered fans and things since last year. We enjoyed tubing, riding bikes around the local trails, and visiting Antietam battlefield. Julie is a great host and checked in to make sure we did not run out of supplies.

Beautiful and relaxing campsite at Wineberry. There were other campers at Julie's other TENTRR site, but I never heard or saw them the entire time. The sites are separated by a small forest. The weather was almost perfect, with no rain but the humidity started to pick up in the afternoon. Therefore, I did all my hiking on Julie's farm's hiking trails in the morning. The site was extremely well maintained and clean. The loo or outhouse was clean. Julie and Gray met me when I arrived and showed me to my campsite. Loved seeing all the fireflies at night. The only "wild" animal that I saw was a fox on my second day. Lots of birds singing and you can hear Antietam Creek behind and down the hill from the campsite. To get to Antietam Creek, you have to hike along the farm's hiking trails (map provided by Julie), as there is no easy access to it from the site. I had intermittent cellular coverage (AT&T) while at the site, which was great because it forced me just to enjoy nature. I did find it worked the best in the morning or going down the car path as if you were leaving the site. Julie proved me with a smores kit, which was a pleasant and welcome surprise!

We loved our stay at Wineberry. Julie was very responsive and had set up so many extras and conveniences. plenty of seating, so quiet and relaxing, tons of room. If you want to camp without having other campers directly on top of you- this is it.

Had a great time at Wineberry. This was our first time using Tentrr, and it went very smoothly. Julie was great, and showed us around the camp. The Coleman Outfitted items were a nice touch. The only con was that it was a little noisy; you could hear other dogs, cars, machinery. Despite that, I would definitely come back to this site!

This was one of the best mini breaks we've ever had. The camp site was beautiful and had everything we needed to be comfortable. It was a beautiful location, Julie was so friendly and helpful, and I would recommend this place to everyone. We are planning on going back in the fall

Julie did a great job with the tent setup. It was comfortable with lots of little extras (lanterns, a built out kitchen sink, board games, extra chairs, and a nicer than usual firepit). We are considering a return visit in dryer weather.

Wineberry at Evensong farm was perfect for our group of 9 who travelled to the area for Freedom's Run. It was so private and peaceful. Everything was clean and easy to use. We really enjoyed ourselves! Julie was such a kind host. We would definitely go back again!

The site is as pictured. Everything was clean and the host was very responsive. I do wish that there was a walkable path to the creek, however.

We SO enjoyed our time at Evensong Farm. The site was well maintained, clean and aesthetically adorable! We really didn't need to bring anything but food and clothes. The farm was beautiful, quiet, had creek access for cold plunging and is situated near cool shops and tubing!

My wife and I wanted to go "away" for a quick night for our anniversary. I was on the fence about it but I decided to go for it and we're so glad that I did! Julie was great! The site was set and ready for us just to relax. We heard coyotes and just laid in the middle of the field and looked at the stars. The lightning bug show was AMAZING!

Julie is a wonderful host, and the site is beautiful, pretty private, and peaceful. Barely any mosquitoes. Tent is totally rainproof, and the instructions (for newbie glampers like us) were straightforward. Highly recommend!
